Calles Backed by Senators in Plan to Alienate Oil Holdings

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 25. (AP)—The Mexican government today let it be known, although in a statement not labeled official, that it has said all it has to say on the subject of the oil and land laws and sees no necessity of further notes between Mexico and the United States.

Apparently the editorial declaration of El Universal that Mexico is only maintaining her sovereign rights represents a wide-spread popular opinion. President Calles is receiving expressions of support from the various political groups, both regarding the oil and land laws and Nicaraguan affairs.

With no present prospects of either Mexico or the United States changing its position, some think that the situation will simmer along until January, when the Mexican government, in accordance with the laws then to be put into effect, confiscates the lands of foreigners who are not registered with the protection of their governments with regard to such property.

UP TO WASHINGTON
Foreign Secretary seems today that the matter now rests with the Washington government, which may declare whether it is satisfied with Mexico's explanation.

President Calles has received a message signed by thirty-three members of the majority group in the Senate, saying:

"The revolutionary group, considering that the executive fulfills a high patriotic duty in upholding the nationalistic legislation passed by Congress, unanimously resolved in connection with the publication of the exchange with the American government to send you a vote of admiration and confidence."

The Department of Industry and Commerce today sent a reminder to the oil companies that under the December 31 expires the term granted to individuals and corporations engaged in the oil industry in connection with the demand for ratification of their own rights, if within the specifications contained in Articles XII and XIV of the oil law.

LEAVE OR LOSE
The government will consider said rights renounced by the holder if ratification is not furnished. As the oil men participated in the conference for drafting the oil law regulations, they are already acquainted with the procedure to be followed for the demand of ratification.

(Under the Mexican oil law, owners who acquired titles prior to the enforcement of the Constitution of May 1, 1917, are required, under penalty of forfeiture, to apply for confirmation of their titles and to accept concessions for not more than fifty years from the time exploitation work begins.)

AMEMBASSADOR SHEPHERD
RETURNS TO MEXICO
MERIDA (Yucatan) Nov. 25. (AP)—James B. Shepherd, American Ambassador to Mexico, who has been on leave, passed through Progreso today on his way to resume his post at Mexico City.

He refused to comment on the publication of the notes between Mexico and the United States regarding the alien-land and oil law, stating merely that he would remain at the disposition of his government.

FAILURE OF RIVER BILL PREDICTED

Arizona Officials Think Swing-Johnson Measure Doomed in Present Form

PHOENIX, Nov. 25. (Exclusive)—Arizona officials and politicians express a general opinion that the Swing-Johnson bill will not pass in Congressional session that begins next month and probably never will pass in the form in which it has been written. It is believed to have had some show in the last Congress, in which favoring action by a House committee was delayed in deference to the wishes of the Arizona Representatives.

The situation now is believed to have changed, this switch due especially to California's action in refusing unconditional approval of the Colorado River compact. The reservation that the river dam first must be provided is reported to have been received with irritation in Wyoming, Nevada, Utah and New Mexico, where the influence to a degree have been removed in the late election.

From Colorado especially has come expressions of belief that California hardly can expect to have her wishes gratified without having to consider the desires of the people of the upper-basin States.

ZONE FLIGHT WILL GO ON

Mishaps Fail to Daunt Flyers

Crews of Navy PN Planes, Forced Down, to Resume
Trip to Colon

Both Aircraft Obligated to Give Up Just Short of Rodgers's Record

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25. (AP)—The shade of John Rodgers smiled encouragement today to his former mates as they rested and contemplated their failure to write a new chapter to the annals of aeronautics.

The feat of the valiant commander who had fifteen months before led an expedition across the Pacific which brought him and his crew down a record distance of 1841 miles from the starting point to drift nine days before a submarine found them off the island of Kauai, remains the greatest nonstop performance for Navy fliers in "PN" airplanes.

Two PN-10 seaplanes, improved in design and construction over those which Rodgers and his companions flew, were down today. They took off at twilight Tuesday on a nonstop venture, intended to take them 2000 miles from Hampton Roads, to Colon, Canal Zone.

That of Lieutenant Commander T. B. Bartlett, the PN-10 No. 2, was taking inventory today of her slight at Saguna Bay, Isle of Pines, preparatory to resuming the voyage. Bartlett, with Lieut. H. C. Rodd and C. F. Schildauer, and a crew of eight, including the mate Charles J. Suter, went down at Nueva Gerona, Isle of Pines, 630 miles yesterday, their oil supply exhausted.

TO TAKE OFF AGAIN
He said today that repairs could be made in time to take off at 6 a.m. tomorrow for the final 760-mile hop to Colon and requested a destroyer to stand guard along the route. If none is available, he will undertake the over 1000-mile voyage, their oil supply exhausted.

LIET. CONNELL REPORTED THAT all members of the crew were well. He said the plane would need a new starboard engine and asked that equipment be sent him at Guantanamo to install the engine. A connecting motor had broken after the crew had struggled against a feverish oil pressure, forcing the ship down 24 miles south of the Isle of Pines.

TWO ON RODGERS SHIP
Strangely enough, two of the crew of the PN-10 No. 1, which was downed for four days and four hours yesterday before the Cincinnati picked her up at 9:35 last night, had shared privation with John Rodgers on the Hawaiian Honolulu flight. They were Lieut. Connell and Skiles R. Pope, aviation pilot.

PLANE FORCED
So far as could be told from the laconic messages signaled from the planes, as they sped south, the navigators were doing as they could to get maximum performance from their motors. Bartlett steered his plane 118 miles before descending, and when Connell was forced down it was calculated he traversed 1440 miles.

REAR-ADMIRAL WILLIAM A. MOFFETT, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, not the least discouraged by the results, said today that the flight showed the Navy had yet to solve certain problems in engine building to increase the range of her heavy planes.

"We'll keep trying," he said. "It will be noticed the new planes performed beautifully as to seaworthiness. None of our boys was any the worse off for his adventure."

FATHER KEEPS
CONFIDENCE IN SON
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 25. (AP)—Happy in the knowledge that his son, Lieut. Byron J. Connell, had safely returned, James Connell, engineer of Monongahela River Coal No. 1, here, celebrated Thanksgiving Day today, confident that his "boy" would yet accomplish a nonstop flight to Panama.

Recalling the anxious days of the search for the Hawaiian flight crew of which Lieut. Connell was a member, the father declined to become alarmed last night when the naval plane PN-10 No. 1, which his son commanded, was missing on the attempted flight from Norfolk to Panama. He was overjoyed, however, when told the plane had been located in the Caribbean Sea, by the cruiser Cincinnati.

"I just had a hunch that everything would be all right," said the elder Connell with a chuckle. "My boy was missing for nine days while he was a member of Commander Rodgers's Hawaiian flight crew in September, 1925. The only regret I have is that Byron failed to reach Panama as per schedule. He'll do it one of these days, though, because he is one of the kind that never gives up."

HUGE LOGGER LURES LOVELORN

Federal Officers Declare That "Little Annie Shusterich" Who Answered "Wife Wanted" Advertisements Is Giant Lumberjack Weighing About 200 Pounds

PORTLAND (Or.) Nov. 25. (Exclusive)—Men in San Francisco, Lincoln, Neb., and Chicago are waiting for their little Annie Shusterich to bring them back their $50 each, while Federal officers declare they have "Annie" in jail here in the person of a giant Russian logger, Leo J. Gecus.

Gecus was arrested in an Oregon coast logging camp by a deputy United States marshal on a charge of answering "wife wanted" advertisements in matrimonial papers and extracting money out of prospective beneficiaries for the stated purpose of paying railway fares. Each time "Annie" received her $50 she penned a receptive answer telling the duped male that "she" was a crook and advising him not to wait for his wife.

PHOTOGRAPH SENT
With the answer to the advertisement a photograph of a very snappy-looking bobbed-haired smiling girl, which the husband would get in return for the $50 railway fare.

One letter attributed to the logger was scrawled as follows:

"You want age 22, but my age is 21. I am a crook. I have brown hair, blue eyes, weight 120 pounds; small in shoulders, broad in hips and thin in waist. I am a few inches over four feet. Do not paint my face and do not go crazy over dances. I remain with love and kisses."

"MISS ANNIE SHUSTERICH, P. S. I will not correspond with you for pass times with no one or wait 10 years for photo. I want get married."

It was explained in one letter that Annie was a German-American girl living in Portland. She worked in a ten-cent store and was a good cook and housekeeper. She asked one victim to "call me your baby love."

Gecus is a blond giant, about 45 years old, weighs about 200 pounds and looking as strong as he is large.

DISILLUSIONMENT
When the cash was received this letter was mailed:

"Dear Sir: I inform you that we are a crook. All we want to get was the money and we got $50 out of you. Thank you for the money, but we are crooks and we will not wait for you to wait for me, as I will never come. I got the money out of not only you but also from other men because I might get in a trouble as few men are looking for me in Portland and I don't want to be in trouble. I don't do time behind iron bars. I staled you off for week, as I wanted to get a new suit from two more apes. Your sweetheart."

Gecus pleaded guilty today. According to "Annie" O'Donnell, who has served thirteen months in McNeil Island for counterfeiting and thirteen months in Walla Walla (Wash.) penitentiary for burglary.

MARRIAGES, DIVORCES GAIN
Department of Commerce Statistics, However, Show Them Slightly Behind Increase in Population

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25. (Exclusive)—The Department of Commerce announces that, according to the returns received, there were 1,181,898 marriages performed in the United States during the year 1925, as compared with 1,179,318 in 1924. These figures represent an increase of 3620.

The estimate for 1926, however, was somewhat less than the estimated increase in the population, which amounted to 1.5 per cent.

During the year 1925 there were 175,495 divorces granted in the United States, as compared with 170,952 in 1924, representing an increase of 4543 or 2.7 per cent.

The population of the United States on July 1, 1925 was 115,378,094, and on July 1, 1924, 113,727,432. On the basis of these estimates the number of marriages per 1000 of the population was 10.2 in 1925, as against 10.4 in 1924; and the number of divorces per 1000 of the population was 1.5 in 1925, as against 1.5 in 1924.

MARRIAGES INCREASE
While the net increase in the number of marriages performed in the United States during the year 1925, as compared with the year 1924, was 267, the relative change in the different States ranged from a decrease of 15.5 per cent in Georgia to an increase of 91 per cent in Nebraska.

States showing considerable decreases in the number of marriages were Iowa, with a decrease of 11.8 per cent; Kansas, with a decrease of 10.8 per cent; Michigan, with a decrease of 7.1 per cent; and Idaho, with a decrease of 6.9 per cent.

States showing large increases include North Dakota, with an increase of 12.1 per cent; Wisconsin, with an increase of 9.6 per cent; Utah, with an increase of 9.2 per cent; and Tennessee, with an increase of 8.9 per cent.

The rate of 10.2 marriages per 1000 of the population for the United States as a whole represents an average rate of 10.2 marriages per 1000 of the population in the individual States ranging from 8.0 in Delaware and 5.7 in Maryland to 12.5 in Maryland and 19.9 in Florida.

In general the changes in the number of marriages per 1000 of the population in the following table form a more satisfactory index of the trend with regard to marriage in the United States than do the absolute figures or the numbers of marriages, because the rate of increase or decrease in the rate of increase in the population. The reader who wishes to make an intensive study of the subject is therefore referred to this table.

The net increase of 2.7 per cent in the number of marriages in the United States during the year 1925, as compared with the year 1924, was the result of changes in the various States ranging from a decrease of 29.5 per cent in Nebraska to a decrease of 1.5 per cent in Utah and 21.1 per cent in Florida.

Other States showing considerable decreases in the number of marriages were Massachusetts, with a decrease of 10.2 per cent; Louisiana, with a decrease of 9.6 per cent; and Minnesota, with a decrease of 4.6 per cent.

Other States showing considerable increases include New Jersey, with an increase of 16.9 per cent; Delaware, with an increase of 16.9 per cent; Wyoming, with an increase of 16.8 per cent; North Dakota, with an increase of 12.1 per cent; and Mississippi, with an increase of 16 per cent.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25. (AP)—The rat-tat-tat of a gangster machine gun and the roar of shotguns broke the Thanksgiving quiet of the South Side tonight, and when the smoke of the battle had cleared away, two notorious gangsters and a bystander lay wounded in the street, the result of a renewal of the war of extermination between rival bands of bootleggers and gangsters.

The O'Donnell brothers' outbreak as Thomas and Charles O'Donnell, bootlegging gangster brothers of Edward "Spud" O'Donnell, who has been engaged in the beer racket here, the bystander who was wounded is Charles Barrett and standing only a few feet from the scene of the shooting was John Conroy, County Assessor, who was unhurt.

The battle was as spectacular as that staged in State street on the North Side a few weeks ago, when several gangsters were shot by rivals armed with a machine gun hidden in an apartment building.

ROUND UP LEADERS
The police immediately started rounding up rival gang leaders and hoodlums. They were looking particularly for a man known as "Coggie," who had a fight with Charles O'Donnell last Saturday night near where today's shooting occurred and who had made threats against him.

The O'Donnell brothers were cornered by several men riding in an automobile from which bristled the muzzle of a machine gun and several shotguns.

Charles O'Donnell had left the home of Mrs. Margaret Burns in South Ashland avenue and his brother, Tom, at the same moment came out of a cigar store across the street when the automobile pulled up a few feet distant.

One man leaped from the automobile with a shotgun and running across the street pointed it at Charles O'Donnell and fired. As if the first shot were a signal, the occupants of the automobile blasted away with shotguns and the machine gun, raking the street in the vicinity of O'Donnells with more than 100 shots, while pedestrians scurried for cover.

Charles O'Donnell fell at the first shot and his brother Tom was dropped in the fusillade, while one slug struck Barrett, a bystander.

MRS. HALL DINES WITH BROTHERS

Wife of Slain Pastor in High Spirits Over Trial

Especially Pleased Because of Willie's Testimony

She Will Take Stand Today or Tomorrow

SOMERVILLE (N. J.) Nov. 25. (P)—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, about to follow her two brothers to the witness stand in the Hall-Mills case, came to jail today to have Thanksgiving dinner with them.

Prepared to testify tomorrow or Saturday, she was buoyant and smiling and issued one of her few statements for publication when she told reporters, "I hope you have a good Thanksgiving dinner."

Mrs. Hall brought several applause cards to Willie Stevens. It was evident that her cheerfulness was caused in part at least, by many letters she has received from friends telling of their enthusiasm over Willie's ability to take care of himself as a witness.

On the stand, in his own behalf, her brother was William Carpenter Stevens, very much at ease and offering a sharp contrast to a wide-spread impression of a Willie Stevens, who had lagged behind the prosecution and dropped out altogether.

As her brother testified, alertly sidestepping traps laid for him by prosecution counsel and politely correcting the State's lawyer when he rumbled a pronunciation or term, Mrs. Hall beamed her satisfaction. She saw him justifying her characterization of him as a "very gallant gentleman" and coming strongly to the support of the family physician who testified that he was able to "make a lot of people look foolish."

Although two years younger than her 34-year-old brother, Mrs. Hall has been more the mother than sister of the man who carried into middle age a youthful fondness for fire-fighting equipment. Willie Stevens made no secret of a fact that he has made a fire engine house his club, but it was developed by his testimony that when he was in his own room smoking a pipe that "everybody objected to," he was reading books that made a full man.

Henry and Willie Stevens and their sister were joined at dinner by their cousin, Henry De La Bruyere Carpenter. He, too, is under indictment on a charge of murdering Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills and the Rev. Edward W. Hall, but was not brought to trial with his relatives.

JURY GETS FEAST

Carpenter, who is a Wall street broker, has the floor for the moment in the trial, with a court ruling to come tomorrow as to whether he shall be declared out of order. He went to the witness stand late yesterday and had added his denial of any connection with the crime, to that of his cousins when objection to his testimony precipitated a legal argument not yet decided.

The broker's testimony was offered

COFFEE CHAMP DONS HIGH HAT

Let 'Em Get Reputation, Says Downer of 62 Cups When Challenges Come In

FERGUS FALLS (Minn.) Nov. 25. (P)—"Get a reputation" is the reply of Gus Comstock, claimant to the world's coffee-drinking championship, to challengers from Akron, O., Corpus Christi, Tex., and other points.

Frank Dwyer of Akron wants to meet Comstock, who recently downed sixty-two cups in ten hours in a drinking bout, while A. E. Herndon, managing editor of the Call at Corpus Christi, wired a challenge in behalf of G. Frank Roberts of that city.

"I hold the record of sixty-two cups," says Comstock, "and if these drinkers want to try for my record, let them first get a reputation. Let them drink sixty-two cups and then I'll drink with any of 'em."

by the defense as a part of an attack on the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, told in court from a hospital bed, that the three defendants and Carpenter were at the scene of the double killing. The State's objection to such testimony was that Carpenter is not on trial and his name was brought into the present trial on cross-examination and not direct.

Justice Charles W. Parker took the problem when he went away for the Thanksgiving holiday. The court is also to rule on the admissibility of documents which the defense claims show the record of Henry L. Dickman, a State's witness, in the Navy and Marine Corps.

The State's fingerprint experts were given an opportunity over the holiday period to study huge enlarged photographs of a fingerprint of Willie Stevens and an impression taken from a calling card of Mr. Hall, found near his body. State's experts have testified that the two are identical. Defense fingerprint men, who denied that the impression on the calling card is that of the defendant, will be cross-examined tomorrow.

The jury tooted tomorrow of the best restaurant spreads Somerville affords, having a Thanksgiving luncheon, followed by a dinner with the same frills.

Hope Fades for Rescue of Sixth Man Caught in Flood Trap

HAZLETON (Pa.) Nov. 25. (P)—Tom Hicken, the half-century-old mining village near here, was glad and sorry today—glad because five of its citizens had been restored to their families after an imprisonment of nearly nine days in a hard coal mine, and sorry because no word of encouragement had come from the rescuers as to the fate of the sixth man caught behind the flood the 16th last.

The sadness and disappointment hung over the home of Charles Smith, whose wife and parents did not learn until today that the five men had been rescued and that their loved one now was the only one unaccounted for. The entombed man's wife bore up bravely, but she must have lost all hope, for she had been informed by a mine foreman that all possibility of finding her husband alive had vanished.

There was no let-up, however, in the efforts being made to reach Smith. Rescue crews worked as feverishly as ever and officials of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company said every resource would be utilized to reach Smith as quickly as possible. Great pumps drew the water from the slopes at a rapid rate, the levels having been lowered fifteen feet during the day.

Eight Cousins Say Undue Influence Exerted Over Late R. V. Dey

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25. (P)—Contest over the estate of another Californian who made his fortune in the Glendora days of the Comstock lode was started in Superior Court here yesterday by eight cousins of Richard Varick Dey, who died at the age of 91 a year ago in New York, leaving approximately $3,000,000.

The contestants contend that another cousin, Mrs. Juliet Ann Scott Pierson of New York, took advantage of the physical and mental infirmities of Dey's old age, obtaining a large bequest for herself and causing the contestants to be cut off with nominal sums. The eight cousins were left $5 apiece.

The case will be heard March 10, 1927.

STRANGER ENDS LIFE IN ROOM AT PHOENIX

PHOENIX, Nov. 25. (Exclusive)—The body of a man who had registered two days before as George Daniels of Los Angeles was found last night in his room at a lodging-house. Evidence of suicide by means of poison was apparent. Daniels appeared to have been about 70 years of age. In his effects were no papers and only a small sum of money was in his pockets. Sheriff Moore has been unable to find any clues to the man's former home or relatives.

RICH WIDOW STRANGLED

Body of Seattle Woman Found Behind Furnace; Clues Tally With Series of Coast Slayings

SEATTLE, Nov. 25. (P)—Mrs. Florence Monks, a widow of this city with an estate valued at $500,000, was strangled to death, investigators announced after an autopsy. Her body was found last night behind the furnace in her home, which she occupied alone. Mrs. Monks left a sister, Mrs. Charles Drummond of Flushing, Long Island, N. Y.

The home of Mrs. Monks had been advertised for sale. Investigators pointed out that in Portland, Or., this year women were killed by men who entered their homes in the guise of prospective purchasers of property. The Monks home was ransacked and a bodice worn by the victim was torn at a place where she usually wore a diamond sunburst.

METHOD TALLIES

WITH OTHER MURDERS

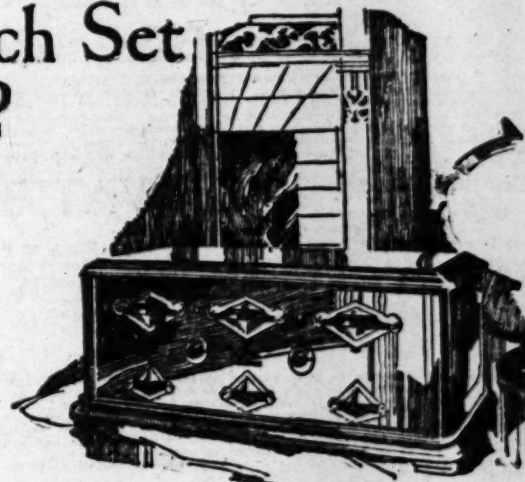

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25. (P)—The murder of Mrs. Florence Monks, a wealthy Seattle widow, bears striking points of resemblance to the strangling here on the night of the 19th inst. of Mrs. William Anna Edmonds, who was also a wealthy widow. The only pronounced inconsistency in the theory that the murder may have been done by the same man is the fact that the descriptions of the San Francisco and the Seattle slayer do not tally.

Both women met death while offering their homes for sale to a stranger, the assailant in each case having been attracted by a "For Sale" sign. The method by which they were done to death is the same, and the manner of disposal of the bodies also hints that both crimes might have been done by the same man.

The San Francisco assailant was described by eye-witnesses who saw Mrs. Edmonds escorting him around her home as well built, dark-haired and swarthy, while the Seattle murderer does not tally with this description. The San Francisco stranger answers the description of a man who has killed a number of women in the last year, his activities extending from Santa Barbara to Portland. His career first began with the killing of Miss Mary Newman here last February. On the night before Mrs. Edmonds was slain, Mrs. H. C. Murray was found strangled in her home here.

COMPARE Grebe reception with that of other sets; and don't buy until you do! Note the tone quality, the range, the selectivity, the ease with which low-wave stations are separated and tuned, the volume of distant as well as local stations.

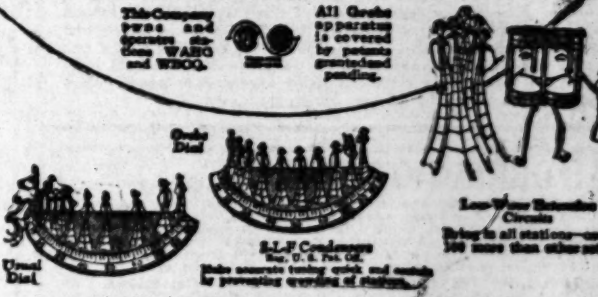

There are very definite reasons why the Synchrophase excels in all these respects — exclusive Grebe developments, four of which are illustrated below.

In addition, with the Grebe Flexible Unit Control you have a one, two, or three-dial controlled set at will; the Dial Light makes the tuning dial visible in dark corners; the Protective Fuse protects B batteries against defective tubes.

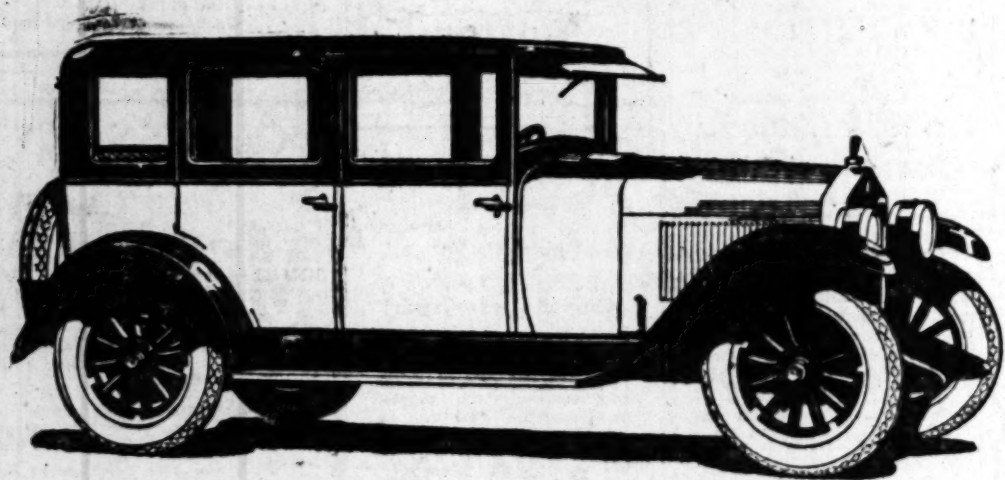

Ask a Grebe dealer to demonstrate the Synchrophase and explain the reasons for the unusual reception it gives.

TRADE BUREAU SHOWS PROFIT

Total of $189,000,000 Worth of Business Obtained

Director Sees Larger Sales of American Goods

PRISONER PAROLED IN 1919 STILL KEPT IN SAN QUENTIN

SAN QUENTIN, Nov. 25. (P)—In December, 1919, the State prison board paroled Ysaabel Molina, an inmate in the prison here, with a Christmas gift in the form of a parole. He had been received from Kern county in 1908. The board which had granted the parole passed out of existence. Yesterday Julian Alco, a member of the board, visited San Quentin prison.

In one of the corridors of the institution he encountered the figure of an aged man shuffling slowly along. Questioned by Alco the prisoner explained he was Ysaabel Molina, 70 years of age, despite the fact he had been paroled seven years ago, he had not been able to arrange for work when he was liberated, one of the conditions of his parole, and therefore had been compelled to remain in prison.

seven working days for each employee, and a second group who worked after hours and on Sundays and holidays until their total overtime averaged more than seventeen working days each. And not a dollar of extra compensation was paid for all this overtime work.

These government workers who work—and they are not cited as exceptions, but as illustrations of what Uncle Sam's hired men and women do to justify their connection with the Federal pay roll—are in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. The first group is the foreign staff of the bureau, while the second is made up of employees in the branch offices or service stations of the bureau in the United States.

And these workers not only worked, but they paid the American taxpayer a big return on his investment. In them, according to the annual report of Dr. Julius Klein, director of the bureau, Foreign trade promotion activities of the Department of Commerce last year cost the taxpayer approximately $3,000,000. New foreign business secured for various American exporters as a direct result amounted to more than $189,000,000.

This is a return of more than sixty-fold upon the investment. To the suggestion that only a few fortunate firms and individuals shared this big dividend, and that it meant nothing to taxpayers in general, the reply may be made that it is impossible to bring $189,000,000 of new business and money into the United States without all taxpayers sharing in the benefit.

EVERYBODY GETS SOME

In fact, everybody gets a bite out of the gigantic pie. American labor, first of all, was well paid for producing this additional amount of exportable goods. American bankers got theirs for the financing they were called upon to do. American producers of raw materials, American transportation agencies, American fuel producers, American exporters, American "white-collar" workers, and even American retailers and landlords shared. Drop $189,000,000 into the industrial and business pool of the United States and it not only makes a big splash but creates ripples that lave every side of the pool.

Uncle Sam got his through additional income taxes paid by everybody whose income was increased by a share in the extra money from abroad. Thereby Mr. Average Taxpayer was at least slightly benefited because his burden was proportionately lightened.

It is interesting to know the specific instances of the helpfulness to American interests of the work of the commercial attaches and trade commissioners of the organization headed by Dr. Klein. In Germany, for example, where the bureau's office in Berlin cost the American taxpayer $63,000, the known sales of American merchandise during the year which came about as a direct result of the activities of that office totaled more than $10,000,000.

OFFICE IN MADRID

In Spain the Madrid office, costing $28,550, developed new business aggregating $500,000, a fifth of which, by the way, was in cigarettes.

During the year the Canadian branch of the bureau was instrumental in obtaining eighty-one agencies for American goods resulting in sales amounting to some $600,000 on a budget of $29,515, according to the report. With the assistance of the bureau's representatives in Bombay and Calcutta, American firms obtained thirty-seven new agents and distributors who have given orders totaling about $2,000,000. The Copenhagen (Denmark) office is credited with orders for goods amounting to $1,000,000 for the year.

With the help of the American commercial attaché at Prague, Czechoslovakia, arrangements were concluded which resulted in the sale of 759 American automobiles. In South Africa the Johannesburg office, costing $24,775, produces business for American firms amounting to $2,250,000 annually.

This sort of work will go on, with every assurance that it will continue to be profitable. The retrospect and prospect for increased sales of American goods in the markets of the world are altogether encouraging, says Dr. Klein. Until recently it has been impossible to judge whether the increased volume of our export trade was merely accidental and temporary or whether it reflected a general trend which might be expected to continue. It is not clear, he says, that the growth of our export trade from the low point of post-war depression in 1921-22 has been of a normal character and due to causes which bid fair to prevail. In no sense does it rest upon "war" markets taken from a war-harassed Europe. Developments of recent years, especially those of 1925-26, indicate emphatically that our gains were almost entirely bona fide new openings of a sort never exploited before by Europeans or by American traders.

A conspicuous feature of the bureau's work, says its chief, has been its greatly increased activity in the field of domestic commerce which enables it now to serve the small local retailer as well as the great export organization. This phase of the work has been launched as a series of regional analyses of distribution in different parts of the country in order to discover possibilities of eliminating wasteful marketing methods. Surveys have already been completed in Philadelphia, and the five South-eastern States, and others are being made in New England and in California.

DOMESTIC TRADE

This work is being carried on with the co-operation of trade organizations and research agencies throughout the territories involved, and it is said that its results has aroused widespread commotion because of the possibilities for economic and more efficient sales efforts which have been revealed. These are perhaps the first exhaustive analyses on a country-wide basis of the marketing practices of long established American business have long been familiar with the exports and imports of its leading foreign competitors, but it now requires increasingly accurate and impartial data on the commercial movements and possibilities of the major trade areas of its greatest market, the United States.

The domestic commerce activities of the bureau have also included comprehensive surveys made at the request of various specific traders relative to the possibilities of improved distribution methods. A typical example of what is being done in this line is the forthcoming study of the grocery trade, which will for the first time analyze in detail the distributive machinery of that fundamental machinery for the benefit, not only of its members, but of the thousands of manufacturers and dealers doing business with it.

Party Leaders Split on Issue of Election Fund

AUGUSTA (Me.) Nov. 25. (P)—Arthur R. Gould, Republican United States senatorial nominee, repudiated by his Governor on the eve of a State investigation of his primary campaign expenses, tonight turned on his accusers with a statement bitterly criticizing the attitude of Gov. Ralph O. Brewster and characterizing his Democratic opponent, Fulton J. Bedman, as a candidate who has "pledged himself to support the principles of the Ku Klux Klan if elected."

Brewster accused Gould of violation of the law regulating expenditures in the recent Republican primary, in a letter made public tonight. "The successful nominee was the beneficiary of the expenditure of very considerable sums in excess of the legal limit," the Governor wrote.

It was Gov. Brewster's first statement in connection with charges of excessive expenditures that have been brought against Mr. Gould, and was made in a letter to Daniel F. Field, chairman of the Republican State Committee, in explanation of his failure to take the platform for Mr. Gould during the present campaign.

HOOVER CANCELS SPEAKING ENGAGEMENT

PORTLAND (Me.) Nov. 25. (P)—Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, will not speak at a meeting scheduled at City Hall here Saturday night to wind up the campaign in behalf of Arthur R. Gould, Republican candidate to succeed the late Sen. M. Fernald in the United States Senate.

Chairman Daniel F. Field of the State committee, announcing the meeting tonight after receiving a telegram from Senator Simon D. Fess of Ohio, through whom arrangements for the coming of Mr. Hoover had been made, which read: "Strongly advise a second speaker, Saturday night. Matters arising here may require Hoover's presence in Washington."

Mr. Field called off the meeting, he said, because he believed it impossible to obtain another suitable speaker at such short notice.

SENATE INQUIRY REGARDING IMPROBABLE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25. (P)—Probability of the Senate Campaign Fund Investigating Committee inquiring into the charges of excessive primary expenditures made by Gov. Brewster of Maine, against Arthur R. Gould, Republican senatorial candidate in Maine, seemed remote tonight at least before the election there on Monday.

In the absence of members of the committee from Washington, it was understood that its books on primary investigations in several States were closed and it was preparing its report for the Senate. It was said yesterday, however, that should any situation develop warranting an inquiry in Maine, the committee might go there, but with the election close at hand it could not survey the situation and make its decision regarding the trip before then.

AIR SPURT FOR OCEAN MAIL FAILS

British Aviator's Effort to Fly from Steamer to Battery Balked by Seas

NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (P)—Failure marked the attempt today of Sir Alan Cobham, British aviator and lecturer, who arrived on the liner Homeric, to fly a "moth" plane from quarantine to the Battery, to prove that mail could thus be expedited.

The only time that the small plane soared in the air was when it was hoisted from the aft deck of the Homeric to the water below. After being buffeted by ground swells the "moth" was finally towed to the Battery and landed.

Sir Alan and Lady Cobham boarded the plane on the ship and were hoisted over the port side without incident.

Two officers of the Homeric stood on the pontoons during the hoisting and lowering, but after one of them had been removed, it was discovered that there was no arrangement to take off the man who was to have cranked or turned over the propeller.

The ground swell by that time was too strong to permit a safe take-off from the water.

Members of the Aeronautical Society of America greeted them as a pioneer, hailing the British aviator as a pioneer.

Many passengers on the Homeric voiced indignation that they had missed their trains and Thanksgiving dinner due to the ship's three hours' delay in docking to enable Sir Alan to make his attempt.

Marshal Killed in Pistol Fight With Prisoner

OSHKOSH (Wis.) Nov. 25. (P)—Miles Maycott, who recently was arrested for "shooting up the town," today was suffering two bullet wounds and facing murder charges.

Last night Maycott fought a gun fight with George Albee, Oshkosh village marshal, who tried to arrest him after E. W. McCall, superintendent of the county school, complained that Maycott had threatened him. Albee was killed.

Maycott is now here as a "crack" shot. He is also well known as a baseball player and a prizefighter, while the paintings of wild animals have given him some fame. He is expected to recover.

LIQUOR INQUIRY TO OPEN TODAY

Canadian Commission Meets at Victoria

Tricks of Rum-Running Trade to be Studied

Car-Smuggling Traffic Also Due for Quiz

VICTORIA (B. C.) Nov. 25. (Exclusive)—The Royal Commission of Customs Inquiry arrived here on this afternoon's boat to carry out an investigation of the customs department here. It is expected that the commission will sit tomorrow to go into matters dealing with narcotic smuggling, rum-running, smuggling of cars in from the United States and other violations of the customs regulations. After completing their sitting here the commissioners will proceed to Vancouver, Prince Rupert and Calgary and return to Ottawa in time for Christmas.

Traffic in liquor by small and large crafts will be thoroughly investigated. Witnesses will be asked what recommendations they have to make regarding the improvement of existing method of having the Canadian craft take liquor to one of the islands in the Strait of Juan de Fuca and transferring it to the American craft. Canadian customs officials are powerless to do anything unless they can catch the boats transferring cargo. Canadian craft are within the regulations when they clear from Victoria or Vancouver liquor for any of the islands and can enter port again with "From Sea" papers.

METHODS TO BE STUDIED

Means by which the large exporters of liquor pour their freewater into the United States through Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles will also be investigated. Unquestioned bonds for liquor which are being held by customs officials here because they are not satisfied with the genuineness of the clearance papers from Mexico will also be investigated. An effort will be made to discover how it is that ships like the Malahat, Quadra, Coal Harbor, Principe and several other rum-runners are able to bring back apparently legal clearance papers after they have discharged liquor to rum-runners off the coast of California and Oregon. The commission will also concentrate on ways and means of stamping out the international narcotic drug traffic. Customs officials, provincial police and royal Canadian mounted police have been busy during the past few weeks breaking up a powerful drug ring here and are daily making new seizures. Twenty thousand dollars worth of opium was seized at Duncan, Vancouver Island, last night.

Assistance will be asked from the San Francisco and Los Angeles prohibition agents in the way of information obtained during the Quadra and Coal Harbor arrests and seizures and the recent arrest of forty rum-runners in Los Angeles.

NEED FASTER BOATS

The provincial government liquor board has volunteered to place its boats at the commission's disposal and also to give any information that will lead the commission to a solution of the export of liquor to the United States on a large scale. The need of speedy rum-chasers will also be inquired into. The only boat the

PRISONER DINES ON HIS HONOR

Judge Provides Turkey for Man on Bread and Water Diet

HARTINGTON (Neb.) Nov. 25. (P)—Today was not just Thursday for John Rex, "bread and water" prisoner at the County Jail.

Through the generosity of Judge Bryant, who sentenced him to the meager fare for cashing a no-fund check, Rex had turkey and all the trimmings up to and including a good after-dinner cigar. The judge was doubly generous, for he not only modified the sentence, but instructed the Sheriff that the "feed" was to be "on" His Honor.

custom department has here is the Winumack which makes only fourteen knots. One recommendation that will be made is that captured rum-running crafts be converted into rum-chasers. The local customs have no less than six captured rum-running crafts that have speeds ranging from thirty to thirty-five knots.

Every effort will be made by the commission to make recommendations to the dominion government that will help the United States to stamp out the rum-running business and break up the big international narcotic drug rings. More co-operation from the air-patrol service will be asked for in an effort to detect smuggling of drugs into this country and the United States by ships from the Orient.

Similar investigations will be carried out at Vancouver and Prince Rupert, while at Calgary the commission will inquire into the smuggling of cars across the boundary.

SEATTLE, Nov. 25. (P)—King County Sheriff Starwich was advised last night by Chief of Police Tovee of Chico, Cal., that a man held here two weeks under the name of Roy Norton, is wanted in twenty-two Pacific Coast cities on bad check charges.

Starwich said an officer in route to Seattle from Chico to take Norton there.

Norton, who was arrested in Auburn, near here, has been sought, Tovee wrote Starwich, by authorities of San Jose, Chico, San Francisco, Healdsburg, Santa Rosa, Petaluma, Orville, Susan City, Marysville, District, Gilroy, Salinas, Los Angeles, Newport Beach, Claremont, Monrovia, Ontario and Riverside, Calif.

Starwich said he had been advised by Klamath Falls, Or., and Walla Walla, Wash.

French General Foresees German Military Peril

PARIS, Nov. 25. (Exclusive)—As Geneva prepares for the League of Nations Council session, Gen. De Castelnau of France's leading war chiefs, now heading the Right Catholic party, sounds the militarist war cry in an article denouncing the "illusory" of chequers, Locarno and "Treaty of Versailles."

The German military manual is used throughout the army and Reichswehr," Gen. Castelnau says. "It contains a hymn of hate against the former enemies, especially France and the Versailles treaty. This is learned by heart by every young German soldier. Everything indicates that Germany is preparing again for an invasion of France, and is actively preparing this instant."

"It is high time to stop talking about evacuating the Rhineland, a reduction of our military force, abolition of the military commission, even considering the chimerical Utopian question of disarmament."

Old Gag About Waiting for Her to Dress Passe

CHICAGO, Nov. 25. (P)—Venerable jokes about men dying of old age while waiting for women to dress for the theater or any other event have all lost their kick and pungency since short skirts, bobbed hair and the era of a few garments as possible came in.

In a series of test cases just completed, it was shown that a girl can dress in forty-five seconds, while her male competitors required three and a half minutes, even when they had been shaved in advance of the starting bell.

The young lady who won the test wore slippers, hose, step-ins, a bra-siere and a dress. The nearest male competitor wore socks, oxford, B.V.D.'s, shirt, trousers, belt, collar, tie and coat. With her long lead, the young woman still had some time to rouge her lips and powder her nose.

EDUCATION URGED FOR PROHIBITION

Oregon's Dry Executive Declares Present Law Methods Unsuccessful

SALEM (Or.) Nov. 25. (P)—Gov. M. Pierce, who will retire from office on January 9, 1930, after four years as chief executive of Oregon, declared in an interview today in the capital that prohibition as we have it in America is not succeeding. People cannot be legislated into being temperate, and must be educated to it.

As a citizen, a State Senator and as Governor, Pierce has been an ardent and persistent prohibitionist. He was an active champion of the local option law and worked for and voted for the Oregon bone dry law. In his first message to the Legislature, he advocated a law, which was enacted, creating the State prohibition enforcement department. His conclusions, reached through contact with enforcement problems, he summed up in these words: "Prohibition by legislation has accomplished the results expected of it. The wet days are returning, if not actually here, we must go back and start all over again; go into the schools, the Sunday-schools and wherever else we can gain access to the formulating minds of the coming generations and teach the effects of alcohol upon the body, the mind and the sinews of the human body. We cannot legislate people into being moral and temperate."

ANTI-FASCISTS FEEL RESTRICTIVE LAWS

ROME, Nov. 25. (P)—Anti-Fascist elements throughout Italy are beginning to feel the effects of the recently approved law for defense of the regime which authorized police to detain and probably the first department lines to curb the activities of such persons. At Verona fifteen persons, including the former Fascist Deputy, Giovanni Urvetti and Carlo Gatto, have been condemned to five years' forced residence in a limited zone. At Aquila two notorious anarchists were condemned to two years of the same restriction while at Messina four Communists, including Deputy Lombardi, were arrested.

GEN. PATRICK ASKS PEACE IN AIR ROW

Urges Enthusiasts to Halt Controversy and Co-operate to Aid Aviation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25. (P)—An olive branch, seeking peace in the prolonged aviation controversy, was held out by Maj.-Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the Army Air Corps, in his annual report. He made a plea for military and commercial aviation enthusiasts to scrap their differences and loyally get together to put pending legislation for air power development into effect when it is enacted.

The report said there had been "no outstanding changes" in the trend of airplane development during the year, but added that in the commercial use of aircraft the United States still lagged behind Europe in carrying freight and passengers, although it was "well in the van" in mail plane use.

"It becomes more and more apparent that some men can learn to fly and that others can not, just as some have musical or mathematical ability and others do not," he said. "Every effort is being made to devise or discover tests which will indicate as soon as possible and as accurately as possible whether or not a man does possess this innate ability to learn to fly. The attempt to teach one who lacks it is a waste of time, money and effort."

LONDON TRADE PRINCE IN NEW STORE DEAL

LONDON, Nov. 25. (Exclusive)—H. Gordon Selfridge, head of London's big department store, is negotiating for the purchase of the business of William Whiteley, Ltd., one of the leading department stores of London and probably the first department store in the world. The capital of Whiteley's is about $6,000,000 and a dividend of 25 per cent was paid for the last two years. Within the last few weeks Mr. Selfridge has bought four suburban department stores in the London district and also owns a large number of stores in provincial towns in Great Britain and Ireland.

NEW MACHINE BRINGS SLEEP

Device Emits Humming Noise Which Dwindles Away
to Nothing

BERLIN, Nov. 25. (Exclusive)—A new slumber machine, which nerve specialists say will bring sleep to insomnia addicts, has been patented here by Dr. Hans Solomon. It is a small box worked by electricity or a strong screw, emitting a regular hum like a hive of bees. This continues forty minutes, gradually becoming slower and softer, until finally it stops, by which time, it is said, the most wide-awake become oblivious to worldly worries.

sitively identified as the leader of a gang of six which stole a $100,000 pay roll last July, and his name was next mentioned in the robbery of the Merch Chemical Company at

Growers Sell Cotton for Merchandise

ATLANTA (Ga.) Nov. 25. (P)—Bartering, as in bygone days, "cotton for what have you," has been added to the various means of relieving the cotton farmer from disposing of his crop at prevailing low prices.

Offers to exchange their products for cotton at from 2 to 6 cents above the market price have appeared in several Southern newspapers recently by numerous automobile agencies,
a business college and a real estate firm.

The Georgia farmer's son who desires to enter business college has perhaps the best bargain. He can receive 18 cents a pound in exchange for his tuition at an Atlanta institution. The college adopted the plan after it had received several letters from prospective students saying they would be unable to attend because of the low price of the staple.

sweeper Wakakura in tow. The Pittsburgh found the Wakakura with

BELLA

By ZONA GALE

Bella was secretly known in Odehill as queer. She was small, blue and white. She said strange things.

THE Leels were the first family of Odehill. For example, Mr. Leel might have consented to be palbearer to anyone in town, but only the very few could have been invited to be palbearers to Mr. Leel.
His monument was high, obelisk-shaped and white. He was laid beside his wife, and there would be nobody else in the lot save Bella. If Bella married, as of course, with her fortune, she would, then that smooth green of clover would never be disturbed.

But Bella was secretly known in Odehill as queer. She was small, blue and white. She said strange things. If she were to come to some outrageous end the town would say that it had always known she would;
but if, on the contrary, she proved a person of distinction, then all would understand her. But the family was so rich that everyone took her for granted.

However, when Mr. Leel's estate was settled Odehill was shaken.
Nothing remained save only his square brick house with the cupola and its old-fashioned furnishings.

Bella, who was now 26, lived in the house and rented rooms to teachers.
And the town, which had secretly found her queer, now saw her without the veil of the Leel wealth, and knew that she was queer.

Since she entertained no more she was not entertained. She worked very hard and had time for few contacts. It became evident that Bella's life was to consist of renting rooms to teachers.

But she knew nothing about her occupation. She often thought that, like boarding-house keepers and mothers, she was utterly untaught in her profession. From the first it was difficult for her to make her expenses. Shortly she was in debt.

A real estate man named Emmmons Decker had opened an office in Ode-hill, and one day he came to see Bella. He had wondered if her house was for sale. She repudiated the idea with something of the grand manner of her mother. But this man was excessively polite, approached her with great consideration, said her name many times in direct address, and Bella felt that she was being treated as he had probably never treated anyone before. So when he asked her to consider the matter and to let him confer with her again "on the proposition" she assented. He returned to confer, and more than once.

But about the sale she was obstinate. She told him often who her mother and father were and how well they were connected. She showed him the silhouettes, the cameo, the seed pearls and the Paisley. And the site was desirable. In time Emmmons Decker, with his manner of great consideration, asked her to marry him and she agreed. At the time she wondered why, but she made up the teachers' four rooms the next day she knew why. And when the month's bills came in she realized that she could not have done better.

Before they were married tax time came, and Bella confided to her husband that she had not the money to meet her taxes. Decker now said that frequently in their business they paid the taxes of others. It was a business arrangement, he said, when he permitted him to pay hers. Now he seemed in no haste to be married; business took him to the West; he returned toward tax time.

U.S.C. TROJANS RUN WILD TO PILE UP 61-0 VICTORY

WUNDERING HERD ROMPS OVER MONTANA GRIZZLIES

Howard Elliott Steals Bill Kelly's Staff to Lead Trojan Gridders to Overwhelming Victory

BY PAUL LOWRY

Howard Elliott stole Wild Bill Kelly's thunder and behind him ball packing and team direction the Trojans pushed their way to a 61-0 victory over the Grizzlies.

The Grizzlies were not a bad team. They were a slaughter. Twenty thousand persons turned out to see the game, which was a Montana U.S.C. pierced the line and ran the ends at will. Montana was weak, woefully so. The visitors line stood up and was pushed all over the place. Some of the boys must have learned their lesson in a corner as a pounce school, they were and were dragged along.

HERE'S A COUPLE OF U.S.C.'S MANY QUARTERBACKS

HUSKIES IN WIN OVER NEBRASKA

Washington Trims Visitors 10 to 6 After Great Attack on Muddy Field

STADIUM, SEATTLE (Wash.) Nov. 25. (AP)—The University of Nebraska, which last Saturday conquered New York University, 15 to 7, on a field of snow, yielded a 10-to-6 victory to the University of Washington here today upon a gridiron slightly coated with mud.

The Purple and Gold line, subject of criticism all season, withstood in the last minute of the battle a tremendous assault by the Cornhuskers. After the visitors had marched four-fifths the length of the field the home team stopped them. The game ended with the ball 3 yards from the Purple and Gold goal.

Robert Stephens, quarterback; Glenn Frennell, left halfback; and Edward Howell, fullback, shone for Nebraska and Louis Tetreau, left halfback, and George Guttormsen, quarterback and captain, and Harold Patton, right halfback, for Washington. Guttormsen and Howell each made a touchdown. Tetreau kicked and ran. Howell, Frennell and Charleston ran.

The field was slippery but firm. Rain, after a week of pretty steady falling, ceased three hours before the contest, and no moisture fell until after the battle.

The crowd was pleasantly surprised to see the erstwhile purple tornado win after losing the championship of the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Conference. The crowd was fairly quiet until Nebraska made its last desperate bid for victory, and the Siwash of Puget Sound stubbornly stopped them. The 30,000 people present had left many vacant spots among the seats.

Washington suffered the first penalty of the contest, 5 yards for being offside. Howell and Frennell did most of the carrying for Nebraska as the ball was advanced, from the Cornhusker 30-yard line, where it was placed in play to the Husky 40-yard mark. Then Stephens made a 10-yard run. This was the first time anybody but Stephens toted the leather. Howell and Frennell moved it to the Washington 25-yard line. Frennell went 4. Though the Huskies held down without halt, making four first downs to this point, Stephens tried a place kick. The ball, booted in the 25-yard line, sailed to the right of the posts. Washington kicked and Nebraska soon did the same.

From the Purple and Gold 38-yard line, Tetreau ran seven yards and William Charleston, fullback, ten. Nebraska received its first penalty for being offside. Then Tetreau passed to tie the score. Line plunges failed to put the pigskin over the goal so a pass was used as a last resort. The Mustangs threatened frequently during the final quarter but were unable to get the ball beyond the Caltech 5-yard line.

ALABAMA RUINS GEORGIA

Crimson Tide Rolls Up 33-to-6 Score Over Rivals; Passes Figure in Winner's Scores

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) Nov. 25.—The Crimson Tide of Alabama this afternoon swept over the Bulldogs of the University of Georgia in characteristic fashion to win their annual football game, 33 to 6, and thus complete a second successive season without defeat.

The margin of victory today, 27-6, that the Georgians have chalked up against the Crimson Tide in the past four years, during which time the Alabama eleven of Wallace Wade has decisively whipped Georgia by twenty-seven or more points each year. The Georgians accounted for their

The Cyclones have really been on their way since a week ago yesterday, having started from Ames, Iowa, on the 18th inst. Workman and his athletes stopped off in Manhattan, Kan., long enough to give the Kansas Aggies a 3-to-0 licking last Saturday. Somebody calling The Times that night for the result wanted to know who picked when the low score was announced.

STAYED AT TUCSON

Leaving Manhattan immediately after winning from the Aggies the Cyclones moved to Tucson, Ariz., arriving there last Tuesday. The three days there were spent in polishing up plays and getting acquainted with

THE INVESTOR

Investment Trust Company
Idea Seen as Becoming Permanent in America

(Copyright, 1926, New York Times, Inc.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (Exclusive).—Indications are the investment trust company is to become a permanent institution in this country. The most recent evidence of this is to be found in the formation about a month ago of the Second International Securities Corporation.

Indicators of securities of the American Founders' Trust and the International Securities Trust of America, and the American Founders' Trust, as fiscal agents, with which the Second International Securities Corporation, already purchased more than $10,000,000 of the new companies' securities.

This is believed to be the first time an offering of such magnitude has ever been wholly subscribed privately in this country and indicates in rather impressive fashion the satisfaction of such security holders in the management and policies of the first two companies formed.

The investment regulations adopted by directors of the Second International Securities Corporation are worthy of close study by investors if only for the purpose of applying them where feasible in their own individual investment selections. They are as follows:

- (1) The corporation shall, within 2 months after its resources aggregate $5,000,000 and thereafter, own at all times at least 400 different marketable securities.
- (2) Not more than 35 per cent of the total resources of the corporation may be invested in securities originating in any one country other than the United States.
- (3) Not more than 3 per cent of the total resources of the corporation may be invested in any one security, except government, State and municipal obligations, or securities of

WEST COAST IRON TRADE IS SLUGGISH

Few Awards Noted and New Inquiries Limited to Small Number
BY DON FARRIDGE
Little of importance transpired in the markets this week. Few awards were noted and new inquiries limited to two or three projects. Prices, on the whole, are firm.

Reinforcing bar contracts aggregated 1000 tons. A San Francisco jobber took 400 tons for the Grove-street pier in Oakland, Gunn, Carr & Co. booked 200 tons for a warehouse in San Francisco and W. S. Wetzelhall Company secured 200 tons for the St. Ignace College, San Francisco. New inquiries involved lots of less than 100 tons with one exception. Ellensburg, Wash., will open bids on December 29, next, for 955 tons for the Kittitas Canal. Producers of mild steel bars look for little real tonnage during the balance of this year. No action has yet been taken on the Western Harvester Company inquiry for 600 tons of hot rolled material.

Lately oil companies have shown considerable interest in new tank projects and a number of tanks have either been placed or are up for figures. Western Pipe and Steel Company secured three 80,000-barrel tanks calling for 380 tons for the California Petroleum Corporation and the Llewellyn Iron Works booked one 10,000-barrel tank for the Shell Oil Company. No action has yet been taken by the Shell Oil Company on their inquiry for nine 45,000-barrel tanks involving 1800 tons. Prices are firm at 230 cents c.i.f., Coast ports.

The majority of structural steel awards were confined to small tonnages. Schraders Iron Works secured 100 tons for an apartment on Lombard street, San Francisco. A number of new projects are up for figures and these include 1800 tons for an office building in Los Angeles and 1500 tons and 1200 tons respectively, for a theater and a warehouse in Seattle. Pending business involves a heavy tonnage and exceeds 25,000 tons. Prices are firm at 235 cents c.i.f.

Cast iron pipe continues in good demand and prices are firm at around $51 a ton delivered. Awards aggregated 1100 tons. Grinnell Company secured 500 tons for South San Francisco Water Company and 281 tons for Huntington Park, California. GOOD INTENTIONS

LIMIT OF LIFE
The limit of life on earth is declared to be 1,000,000,000,000 years. Now we have something else to worry about.

LOOKS EASY
Gen. Andrews is telling big business to ask its traveling men to quit buying booze. This ought to get the bootleggers out of the trenches by Christmas.

TICKERS
No father of pretty daughters can understand why so many modern young men are called "easy going." It seems dogged hard to get lots of them to go.

RECORD-BREAKERS
In Southern California new records are always "challenged up" rather than marked indelibly because they must be rubbed out in a day or two to chalk up newer ones.

FOUR TO ONE
America now leads the world in commercial aviation, yet aviation still appears to be far behind automobilism. Last Sunday only one aviator was killed here and there were four deaths from auto accidents.

ON HER EAR
In the fall of 1923 a group of tourists heard the wax in the sphinx's ear crack as they were viewing her ladyship by moonlight. The Egyptian government at once employed a beauty doctor to touch up the features ravaged by time.

HEART TROUBLE
Heart disease is now taking a greater toll of life than tuberculosis, says the United States Public Health Service. In 1924 heart failure claimed 174,671; tuberculosis, 89,742. The next thing they will be blaming our demise on death.

TWO AND TWO
We are happy to announce that Rabin-drath Tagore, the Indian poet, is not going to make an American lecture tour this season. That is, Hon. Tagore gave out an interview in Bucharest the other day in which he said he could see very little good in America.

PUFFING AND PETTING
From the questionnaire sent out to men of the graduating classes of ten American universities in 1926 the ideal wife desired by the young man is a girl who does not smoke, drink or pet. It would be interesting to ask the girls what sort of husbands they would have.

GOOD NEWS FOR BRIDES
An eastern dietetic expert says that canned fruits and vegetables are as nourishing and as wholesome as fresh ones. By not a few consumers this statement will be taken with a grain of besenote of soda, but it will strongly appeal to the newlywed cook who might be tempted to divorce her husband, but never her can opener.

DUMB DORA
The Oxford Union Society, of which many of England's leading men have been presidents, recently voted 223 to 193 that "the women's colleges of this university should be leveled to the ground." While the vote was nonpartisan in effect, yet it reflected the feeling against coeducation. What would John Bull have a dumb Dora?

A HAND-CLASP
Cleveland City Council has set apart a day for annual observance to foster good-will with her northern neighbors and to celebrate the 100 years or more of extended peace between the two countries. Buffalo, Detroit and other cities are giving similar attention to the ties that bind. A hand-clasp is the best bond between two nations.

"NO ACCOUNT"
Lieut. Gov. Byron Pitts states that the most profitable crime in this country is passing bad checks. About $50,000,000 was lost the past year in this lucrative industry. In Los Angeles alone $100,000 went up the flue by the "insufficient funds" or "no account" route. The brilliancy of some "no accounts," it turned to right channels, might make them famous.

TELL IT ALL
While one is waiting for the movie feature to be shown on the screen it is thrilling to be informed that the film editor is Elmer T. Jenkins, the photographer by Jack Roscoe Jones, the art titles by Sid Mickselsooper and the Edna Wallington. This information is highly interesting and entertaining, and always is greeted with tempestuous applause by the spectators, why do the producers keep back what everybody really is dying to know—who built the back sets, who adjusted the villain's mustache and who applied the glycerine tear drops to the heroine's cheek in the loveliest kissing scene?

THE BRITISH COMMONWEALTH
The news in the decision of England to grant independence under the empire to the dominions is merely in the fact that England had the good sense to do it. But even that is not to be wondered at, for long ago she became the world's past master in the art of governing colonies. That the decision was inevitable is recognized by close students of British politics. Issues involving independence of the dominions brought the imperial conference into being and this question has been the dominant interest of the sessions.

England was confronted with the dilemma of losing some of the dominions or freeing them all, and wisely chose. South Africa was the weak link in the imperial chain, and the link could be strengthened only by discarding the chain and substituting therefor merely the cord of sentiment. It was a heroic thing to do.

England's gift of freedom is unparalleled in the history of the world, and it does not lessen the credit or the glamour that it was in a degree enforced. Had she been less astute she would have denied them, perhaps waged a probable war with one of the most malcontented—and probably lost. Australia, Egypt and Ireland would have severed in sympathy and the empire would have come to almost complete disruption. As it is, that has been avoided, and the empire enters upon a new era, immeasurably stronger than at the last hour of the old order. Her imperial responsibilities now, aside from the Indian problem, chiefly, are greatly lightened. Her sons have grown to man's estate and are free to carve out their own careers. Her problem now is to keep them mindful of family ties and obligations.

That they will recognize the obligations is merely to credit them with common comprehension. Under England's protection they have been permitted to grow without molestation by ambitious powers to the status they now enjoy. Their growing strength has been available for development of their national wealth, whereas their resources would have been taxed for defense. The home folks always have been liberal with cash, hundreds of millions advanced on the security of good will. An instance of this was the advances to the late Sir William Mackenzie of Canada for promotion of his Canadian Northern Railway and allied enterprises, more or less speculative undertaking owing to the vast stretches of undeveloped region his lines traversed. Probably in excess of $300,000,000 was loaned to him in England, and the entire enterprise finally went over to the Dominion. The English attitude was that Canada required development, and they fostered it.

But in connection with that is an instance demonstrating the unavailability of British justice. An American acquired a charter for a railway running north from Edmonton, to compete, in a way, with the Canadian Northern's expansion. The undertaking was financed by J. Pierpont Morgan and $7,000,000 placed in an Edmonton bank. The Canadian Northern backed opposition; the provincial government backing the enterprise was overthrown, and the charter expropriated. The case went into the courts and the American lost, until he came to the Privy Council. There, in spite of the fact that Sir William personally knew all the justices, belonged to their clubs and the like, the unknown American upstart from Kansas City won his case.

It is this very quality of British justice that may be depended upon to keep the new empire on the way to a wonderful consummation as a family of nations. The principle underlying it approaches the ideal. The achievement is inspirational, and all lovers of justice in the world will wish England success.

THREE OBSTACLES
Is not the disgruntled minority agitating for California State division bumping its head against a stone wall? Even supposing that separation and aloofness were the only available method for composing our present State family disagreements, the practical obstacles to such a solution of the problem place it outside the range of serious politics.

The only precedent for carving a new State out of an old one is found in the case of West Virginia, and it was accomplished under a stress of circumstances hardly likely to prevail again. With Virginia seceding from the Union, no other means presented themselves to the loyal folk of the western counties for staying under the Stars and Stripes. Even so, Western Virginia could not constitutionally have formed a separate State had not the proud supporters of the old commonwealth refused to take any part in the election.

Old Californians are proud, too, but not so proud as to allow a group of its younger adherents to vote any part of the family out of the original household. In any case, there are preliminaries to such a split to make the most hot-headed advocates of State division pause and consider.

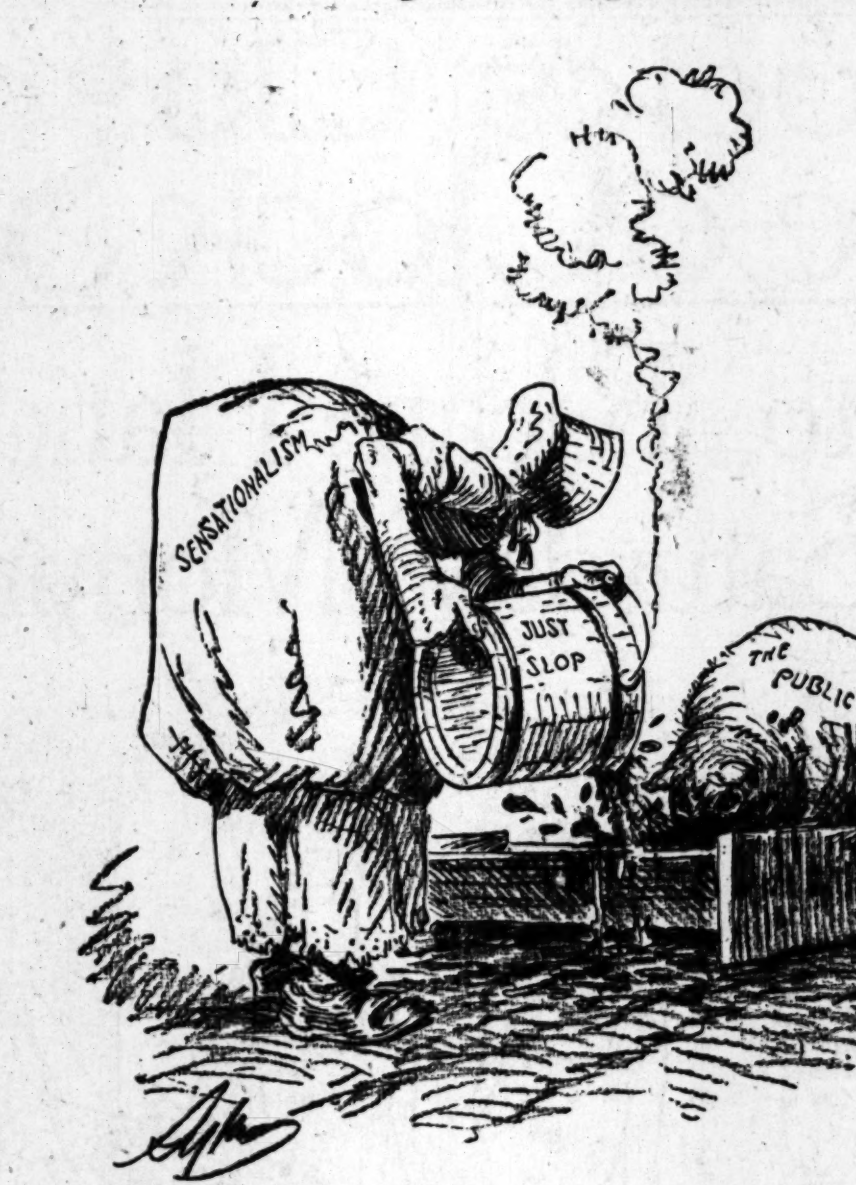

Authorities on the Constitution declare that three things are necessary for the breakup of an old State. It requires the consent of a majority of the voters, the sanction of the State Legislature and endorsement by Congress. Any one of these is an obstacle in itself that organizers for State division in California will find it difficult to overcome. Combined they are insurmountable. A majority of Californians will not be easily persuaded to vote for disunion; the State Legislature cannot be imagined sanctioning such partition and the probabilities are that Congress will not agree to it.

Northern and Southern California are riding the same horse, but not exactly on equal terms. The north has a comfortable seat near the withers, while the south is crowded back to the rump where the motion is bumpy. But cutting the horse in two wouldn't mend matters. No true mother wants only half a baby, as Solomon knew when he rendered his famous verdict over a similar dispute.

UNCLE SAM'S SUPREMACY

Uncle Sam is the center of an economic storm. It appears to be low pressure all about him and everything is coming his way. His wealth is estimated at $505,000,000. Forty per cent of the world's wealth is in his jeans.

That, with only a fifteenth of the world's population about him, he is doing one-half of the world's work does not satisfy the clamoring crowd. He has $25,000,000,000 in war and industrial loans as liens upon other nations.

He operates about one-half of the world's mileage of railways and three-fourths of all the telephone and telegraph lines. He produces in round numbers about half of the world's iron, copper, oil, cotton and timber. He generates 55,000,000 industrial horsepower a year and uses 68,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of electrical energy.

He owns and operates 250,000 factories, 750,000 retail stores, 27,000 ships, 300,000 miles of surfaced highways, 5,000,000 radio sets. The Year Book of the Department of Commerce also shows that a day's wage paid by Uncle Sam will buy four times the necessities of life a day's wage will buy in Milan, Vienna or Warsaw; three times as much as in Berlin or Brussels; twice as much as in London.

He has 600 industrial laboratories, most of which were established within a decade, and four times as many students in institutions of learning as he had a generation ago.

Mr. Whitney is the target of fiercest storms because it is the highest peak in the country. Rain tries to wash it down, hail chisels it, frost disintegrates it, earthquake tries to shake it down.

Because President Coolidge is lifted aloft, every act is under the closest scrutiny. He cannot even catch a fish without his measurements being published everywhere. Even the White House housekeeper is writing a book on the President's Kitchen affairs.

John D. Rockefeller is the constant object of critique by pulpit and sociologist, and yet he does incalculable good by his foundations. Being the richest man keeps him under constant review.

The miraculous development of Southern California keeps it in a constant state of siege. The press of North and East bomb it with a continuous barrage of gibes.

Uncle Sam is dodging the increasing cross-fire from Europe for no other reason than that he is prosperous. John Bull does not enjoy being supplanted by Uncle Sam commercially. London does not yield to Wall Street gracefully.

Criticism is the by-product of success. It is a new experience for Uncle Sam. Leadership has been thrust upon him suddenly. He smarts under the shafts. His skin is still thin.

Just what effect his supremacy may have upon his own character is a problem. Will it make him smug and overbearing, or sympathetic and kindly?

BRICKS

BY ELLANORE J. PARKER

Before the new world came into the arena to play her great part, bricks were a staple part of the life of the people. Men made them with their bare hands, molding into them the sweat of their labor, and men looking upon them dreamed their dreams of mighty palace, or little home to shelter loved ones from the sunlight or the storm.

No city has arisen without the bricks of clay. Red and warm, they have kept faith with man, their creator. For him they have resisted the fierce onslaught of the elements, and for him inclosed gardens of exquisite beauty, and gardens where a few sweet posies were a laborer's delight.

Rich and poor have leaned upon their power. Each brick, so small in itself, so mighty when linked to its fellows.

Flagged walks of brick have been pressed by the feet of the gentle and the lowly in those gardens of the old world; a sundial, a walk of red bricks, and the sweetest roses, a man and a maid, and the low whispers of the new little house of dreams. Bricks to inclose them in a harbor, a close sweet place of dreams where the voices of children would ring in merry laughter.

Bricks to build a hearth for the leaping flame! Little faces reflected in the fire glow as they listen to the tale of great forebears who went down to the sea in ships or rode away to strange lands. Warm and snug are the man and his wife, happy and strong his bairns, shut in by the good walls of brick.

Bricks, ruddy and warm in the hot sunshine of a California day, thousands of them, forming a noble wall; arches of them to entrance the eye of the beauty lover; Spanish arches to bring back some of the old charm of a by-gone day.

Bricks, red bricks to build the house of California, the house of the north and the house of the south.

Red bricks as warm as blood, rich with promise for the beautiful house now building, the Playhouse of the Mission, the greatest symbol for unity of north and south.

Is the golden chain of the Missions of California one that men could break? Did not the feet of the padres press the long trails of both north and south?

Bricks, calling to all the lovers of the missions, we build for posterity.

Bricks, fine strong bricks you will not bend or away. Firm and straight shall your formation be under the hand of the builder. Shall the hearts of the people be less strong for unity?

A house of bricks to house a dream, and men shall come and rest awhile beneath its sheltering walls, faring forth with a tender smile and a new conception of California's history. Many a backward glance will rest upon the great Playhouse that stands in old San Gabriel; many a tongue will carry the tale of its beauty, the charm of its setting.

Bricks piled one upon another; and, lo, another landmark upon the highway of the years!

SHORT CUT NEGLECTED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—[To the Editor of The Times:]

Read in this morning's Times list of bridge constructions in this city. Failed to see a word about the reconstruction of the bridge at Glendale Boulevard and Sunset. Last spring when bonds were being gathered for bridges, etc., a speaker from the east side told a high school gathering at Fair-High School that one of the first projects would be the reconstruction of that bridge. He announced that public works had been declared condemned and that it is dangerous. Still, as far as I know, not a thing has been done to prevent a possibility of collapse of the shabby structure.

The old thing trembles and wobbles when those heavy red cars pass over it. Even the weight of an automobile can cause the bridge to collapse. I am sure that the city cannot afford to neglect this bridge. It is far more important to make old bridges safe than to install new bridges at places where there has never been any.

I am greatly surprised that inasmuch as this road cuts one hundred miles off the distance from the East to California as compared with the old trail and Bankhead Highway, it is not better advertised and in no such shape as to lead short cut into California should be. You gentlemen are advertised, on the last page of your paper every day of some of the main issues for the betterment of Southern California, such as direct train service to New York, the high dam at Boulder Canyon, etc. Why not take the same line of thought and backed points up and down the road which saves the tourists one hundred miles of driving through conditions in the summer time?

Thanking you in advance,
WILLIAM PAAR.

Schooling in Norway
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] We have always been amazed at the waste in the American school system. In a country where everything else is down to a fine system, it seems incongruous that the most important institution, its schools, should be run so inefficiently. This relates to grammar schools.

In Norway a child starts to school at the age of 7, and attends school until the age of 14, or seven years, which are compulsory. They have four 15 minute periods every day, including Saturday. Two batches of children, so to speak, can be taught where one is taught in America. One group comes at eight and goes home at twelve, the other comes at twelve and goes home at four.

All studying is done at home. In the school no lessons are given over and explained, methods taught, etc., but no hour is given over to study by the children alone. With the exceptions of music, gymnastics, sewing and manual training, the children remain in their classrooms. The teachers do the going around, i. e. the teacher who does the so-called instruction, writing, arithmetic, botany, zoology, gymnastics, composition, grammar, drawing and religious history.

While the children are in school they work. They learn the value of time and concentration. They graduate with more knowledge after their seven years of school than American children do after ten years of their haphazard schooling.

RUM MARKETED
IN SCHOOL YARDCustomers' Calls for Liquor Watched by OfficersStuff Obtained by Reaching Through Fence HolesArrest of Suspect and Fine
by Court Follows

Liquor in any form, outside of explanation in textbooks in reference to the Volstead Act, has no place in any school of the city in the eyes of the law and the presence of several bottles of high-powered whiskey in the Castelar street schoolyard was an educational faux pas on the part of Nick Cans.

Numerous persons had turned to certain designated spots in the schoolyard for higher learning in the matter of forbidden liquids, it was revealed when Cans appeared for trial before Municipal Judge Ambrose on a liquor charge. The defendant admitted he had no connection with the school other than his belief that its educational status might serve well to cloak his activities in catering to the desires of his thirsty patrons.

Cans' novel use of the schoolyard for delivery of his wares was revealed when Officers Gibson and Goyer were called to the stand by Deputy City Prosecutor Eberhard. The officers testified that, after receiving reports of Cans' activities, they hid inside the schoolhouse and for more than an hour watched various persons reach through holes in the fence and hurriedly depart with packages.

Then, they said, Cans arrived with a jug of whiskey which he deposited in a hole in the schoolyard. He was arrested and they then discovered nearly a dozen bottles hidden at various places along the fence in holes or near trees, they said.

A verdict of guilty was returned against Cans and Judge Ambrose imposed a fine of $500 with an alternative of twenty-five days in jail.

INDIAN MUSIC NOVEL
FEATURE OF CONCERT

South American Indian music, will be heard in Los Angeles at the popular concert of the Philharmonic Orchestra, Walter Henry Rothwell, conductor, on Sunday afternoon.

Nino Marceli, resident of San Diego and one of the best-known western composers, passed his early boyhood in Chile, and it was while there, and in intimate contact with the Indians, that his "Suite Araucana" was completed. It won the 1923 prize among all American compositions, and was enthusiastically received when it was performed by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra at the Stadium concert.

Marceli has lived in San Diego the past six years, where he conducts the San Diego Civic Orchestra and the Oratorio Society of that city. He was born in Rome in 1867, was raised in South America, and passed two years serving with the American Army in France during the war.

JURIST'S FATHER PASSES

Edwin E. Stephens, Also Parent of City Attorney and County Pioneer, Called by Death

Edwin E. Stephens, 83-years of age, pioneer of Los Angeles county and father of Albert E. Stephens, presiding judge of the Superior Court, and Jesse E. Stephens, City Attorney, died yesterday afternoon at his residence, 316 North Juanita avenue. His widow and all his six children were at his bedside when the end came.

On March 20 of this year Mr. Stephens and his wife celebrated the fifty-sixth anniversary of their marriage. Until a year ago, when he received word of the death of his only living brother, the pioneer California had been in excellent health. Judge Stephens said, and his breakdown is traceable to that occasion.

According to Judge Stephens, his father, who retired four years ago, after almost a quarter of a century, was very much affected by the recent death of Uncle Joe Carson, a friend and neighbor in Illinois shortly after the Civil War and never completely recovered from the shock of his former comrade's death.

Mr. Stephens was born in Cincinnati, O., in 1843, moving to Illinois immediately after the war between the North and South. There he married Amanda Rice, who survives him, and in 1884 the couple moved to Compton, in Los Angeles county, where Mr. Stephens engaged in the hardware business.

He leaves, in addition to his widow and the two sons, Mrs. A. V. Down and Mrs. Elsie Musselman. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Stunt Film Made Of

A risky leap, a human-fly stunt on a careening automobile and gunplay that would make a motion-picture director register approval, entered into an automobile theft and recovery last night with Joe Moody, 1388 Chesborough Lane, as the star of the performance.

Moody was at a Thanksgiving party near Mateo and Willow streets when he heard a familiar whirr of his motor. He ran out a side door in time to see three men making off with his car.

Moody's sense of property right got so much the better of his sense of safety that he dashed to the car and succeeded in climbing on its back end unknown to the three unwelcome occupants.

At the corner, Moody did a human-fly stunt, swinging around to the driver's side of the car, grabbed the steering wheel, forced the machine into a traffic signal post and then pounced on the driver.

Officer Nelson on the corner saw the commotion, and also two men jump and run from the car. He gave chase to one, who drew a revolver, and the two exchanged shots, but without effect on each other. Nelson's man got away, as did the third and unpursued man.

Moody held his man, who was placed in jail on charge of suspicion of grand larceny. The man said he was Lorenzo Lopez, 5811 Alameda street.

Moody said he learned from the conversation of the men while he was hanging on the back end of the car that they were "beating it for Watts."

Clyde Clark, said to be at least 40 years of age, was arrested in Pasadena last night and placed in jail on a grave charge.

Clark was charged with the abduction of the 15-year-old daughter of a wealthy Los Angeles family that employed him as chauffeur. Clark is charged also with robbery of his employer.

It was reported that Clark, as a trusted employee, got himself in the good favor of the child and then wronged her. The asserted disappearance of a diamond ring, valued at $10,000, and its subsequent return is understood to provide the basis for the robbery charge.

Juvenile authorities have been watching for more than a month for Clark at his Pasadena home, where he has a wife and child.

While Thanksgiving merriment at the Montmartre Cafe, rendezvous of Hollywood filmdom, was at its height last night, a bandit held up the coffee shop downstairs at 6737 Hollywood Boulevard. The hold-up and the ensuing dramatic pursuit gave hundreds of spectators, including many motion-picture celebrities, a period of keen excitement.

Three hundred and fifty dollars was the reward of the hold-up enterprise. With the Montmartre Cafe upstairs crowded, and with scores of automobiles and pedestrians passing, the bandit entered the coffee shop at about 10 p.m. He chose a full in the back of the head.

STAR IN ANOTHER FRENCH FARCE

Adolphe Menjou's Next to be "Man in Evening Clothes;"
Victor Seastrom to Direct M.-G.-M.'s "The Enemy;"
"Lost World" Turns Highbrow

Adolphe Menjou's next starring vehicle for Paramount will be "The Man in Evening Clothes."

Announcement to this effect was made yesterday by B. F. Schulberg, West Coast executive for Famous Players-Lasky. The popular star, having just completed the French farce, "Blonde or Brunette," will again find himself in the familiar French locale in "The Man in Evening Clothes," which was written by Andre Picard and Yves Mirande.

Luther Reed, who just completed his second directorial assignment for Paramount, "New York," at the Long Island studio, will come to Hollywood to pilot Menjou in his next picture. Reed had originally been assigned to direct Florence Vidor in the reward of the hold-up enterprise, "Afraid to Love," at the eastern studio, but production on that picture has been temporarily delayed by reason of Miss Vidor's illness. Reed will leave at once for the West Coast to prepare for the new picture.

Vidor will return to Hollywood to recuperate, and when fully recovered will make "Afraid to Love" at the Hollywood studio under direction of Richard Rosson.

Swedish Director for June
Victor Seastrom, it is reported on good authority, will direct "The Enemy," which June 1927. Seastrom has just signed to scenario for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

This director's most noted megaphone artists. He came to this country about three years ago, being signed with M.-G.-M.

Constance Talmadge Starts
Constance Talmadge, on Wednesday started work on her latest picture, "Carolina," a story of modern Venice. The picture is being made at United Artists studio.

Edward Martin, M. C. H. Vavich, Arthur Thalasso and Andre Landry are the new stars.

Ben Lyon, who is featured in the title role of "The Prince of Tempers," which comes to Loew's State today, is said to have declared himself in favor of a member of the profession as a bride.

Ben hasn't named any particular young lady of the silver sheet as his prospective bride, but according to a recently published interview, the star has recorded many reasons why his wife will be selected from the business in which he has become famous. However the same interviewer advises the fair admirers of Ben not to take his declaration too seriously, but wisely pointing out that many a young man has had very decided views on the subject of matrimony only to fall in love with some one directly opposite in type to his ideal.

Richard Bennett, starring as "El Cato" in "Creoles," at the Mason, has found the picturesque leather costume he wears while portraying the Gulf Coast raiding captain, to be a fine means of reducing.

Bennett claims to be enjoying the greatest role of his career while living—and loving—the romantic tale of the Old South, written by Samuel Shipman and Kenneth Perkins, and is in action from the time the star curtain goes up until a roaring tropical hurricane destroys the beautiful old New Orleans mansion, in the last act.

As a result, he has little time to rest and claims to have lost nine pounds in the last ten days, due entirely to the form-fitting and airtight dress he wears. The stage star opened in "Creoles," in San Francisco, four weeks ago, and was overweight at the time. Yesterday, he declared the loss of just a few more pounds would cause him to devise ways and means of personal ventilation, for, according to Bennett, his leather pirate garb has all the virtues of a Turkish bath—not only you wait, but while you wait.

Bennett is supported by Evelyn Vaughn, Felix Krebs, Hortense and Louise Equire and a cast of forty.

Louis Golden, formerly manager of the West Coast Boulevard Theater, has been promoted to the post of resident manager at Loew's State Theater, generally considered the most important managerial position in the West Coast Theater circuit. Mr. Golden has been connected with West Coast Theaters, Inc., since its inception. His first important post with this organization was when he was appointed manager of the Kinema Theater, now known as the Criterion. He is no stranger at Loew's State, having been manager of the Seventh and Broadway playhouse when West Coast Theaters took it over.

With the transfer of the West Coast offices from the Knickerbocker Building on Olive street to their present location at Washington and Vermont, Mr. Golden became closely associated with A. and M. Gore, president and vice-president of West Coast Theaters, and W. H. Loller, assistant general manager.

Super-Heavyweights of Southland Foregather at Festive Board

Probably the "Biggest" Thanksgiving Feast Held Anywhere in the Southland took place at an inn on Ventura Boulevard where twenty-five persons, none of whom weighed less than 250 pounds, gathered around the festive board as guests of Joe Rock, film comedian. Rock had previously announced that anyone in Los Angeles who tipped the beam at 250 pounds or more was cordially invited. Among the guests were four female heavyweights. It is an interesting fact that of the twenty-three who sat down to eat, not one was without sufficient funds to provide himself with the best the market affords. Evidently a fat man likes a fat man as company. Photo at left shows others seated. At right, Mrs. Del Arco and Fat Alexandra step a measure. (P. & A. photo.)

NEW MUSIC BOX REVUE BRIGHTER

Lupino Lane Acquisition in Fun, Dancing, Magic Dance Ensembles Dazzle

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

The new Hollywood Music Box Revue is brighter and better. Much brighter, and on the whole much better. It succeeds the show called "Carter De Haven's Fancies," which had been playing up to the present at the theater on Hollywood Boulevard and Gower—the newest in that sector. It incorporates virtually the same chorus numbers that were in the preceding production and it is more liberally permeated with comedy and distinguished by cleverer people.

It's a great show. There has been no revue staged here or presented here by any touring company to equal it as a presentation. All the adjectives, like "gorgeous" and "splendid" may be resupplied. For it remains a girl show triumphant, with the magic of perfectly synchronized dancing steps by a stage ensemble—their famous "Serpentine," "Evolution of the Dance," "The African," "The Lullaby," "The Love of Love" and other big novelties. It is the kind of show, in fact, that would almost re-establish the half-headed row, and the organized league of tired business men as "national institutions." Its only fault may be a tendency at times to overemphasize the fleshly appeal, but it is perhaps from a modern viewpoint, conservative in this.

The initial performance of the new revue last night started at a slightly tense pitch of nervousness, but calmed down later, and the numbers followed each other very smoothly. There must have been some uncertainty as to their succession because there was no program, but this did not detract, as to so professional an audience as attended the outstanding new principals, like Lupino Lane and Ted Ray, were well known, nor is the Hollywood Music Box Revue the sort of production that demands a program for its comprehension. It is as light as air, and as carefree as summer breezes—or what will you?

Lupino Lane is a great acquisition, for he supplies the need that has been lacking in the production of a top-notch comedy-drama. He has a "Follies" background and is deft and versatile.

Lane scored a particular triumph with his dancing and his humor in the final musical number. It was the climactic hit, though a late one. The sketches in which he appears are in the main acceptable, the best being the satire on the growing masculinity of femininity, and the growing femininity of the masculinity—that will pass as the high-brow of it. To explain, it is the boy (not the girl) who is left astray by (in this case) the musical comedy, "from the East" and then rejected when the woman goes back to her husband.

The idea is not all new, but it is rather effectively dealt with, and is the best. Bobby Higgins, Doris Eaton and others do well in it.

The comedy material, as such, needs broadening, but it is, as a rule, quite clean. Most obviously missing in several cases were good tag lines, and finishing gags.

A first-night audience here is, however, a very exacting one to play to, and those on the stage evidence their awareness to this by too much restraint. The laughter was most pronounced from the rear rows of the theater, where perhaps fewer of the professionals are seated. This is perhaps encouraging for the popular favor which the humorous part of the new show will meet.

Doris Eaton was missed somewhat in the earlier portion of the show, but on the whole has a good assortment of numbers. She is quite evidently a great success with the public.

Some will miss Eddie Lambert, perhaps, who was a redoubtable source of broad fun in the original production.

Ted Doner is satisfyingly present in dance, song and comedy numbers. His work is snappier than it used to be. He apparently reacts notably to the more animated environment.

John Maxwell is very excellent in his singing, and the men's chorus last night was splendid at the close of the first act. Florence Hedges' singing stunts with the high-pitched whistle-like note is quite original, and the Doley Twins by their refinement and grace please exceedingly.

Henry Sahara, eccentric dancer did not apparently register full force last evening, but a very attractive addition is Nancy Carroll, who has been seen heretofore in comedy sketches. Bobby Thompson dances nicely.

In fact, the Hollywood Music Box Revue remains one of the most dazzling dancing shows to be seen anywhere, undoubtedly, at the present time, and is now enlivened with other good ingredients.

Actors Do Not Get Enough Pay for Hard Work

Wallace Carey claims that actors are underpaid.

Greta Nissen, who appears in support of Florence Vidor in "The Popular Sin," which opens at the Metropolitan today.

SILLS IS IN "PARADISE"

"Paradise," Ray Rocket's first production for First National, which comes to the Uptown Theater, West 11th street, today, with Milton Sills in the starring role and Betty Bronson featured in the leading feminine part, is an Irvin Willat First National Production.

Rocket secured a brilliant list of players for this production. Besides Sills, Betty Bronson, there are Kate Price, Charley Murray, Lloyd Whitlock, Ivan Simpson and Noah Beery.

"Paradise" is the film version of Cosmo Hamilton's novel of the same title. The treatment was done by Gladys Unger, and the continuity was written by Paul Schofield.

Colorful South Sea island settings were designed by Clark Robinson. Stars will appear in person, tonight.

Stolberg and his band have arranged what is promised to be an entertaining musical presentation in conjunction with the showing of "Paradise."

RETURN TO M-G-M
Waldemar Young, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer scenarist, has returned to the studio, after a brief vacation in San Francisco, following his completion of "The Day of Souls." He formerly was a San Francisco newspaper man.

Two Directors Take Hand in "Popular Sin"

A play written by one director and produced by another is the attraction at the Metropolitan Theater for the week starting today. It is Florence Vidor in "The Popular Sin," a Paramount picture. Monta Bell wrote the story and Malcolm St. Clair produced and directed it. Miss Vidor is supported by Clive Brook, Greta Nissen, Philip Strange, Andre Beranger and Iris Gray.

The story deals with a wife who, finding she can no longer tolerate her flirtatious, dissipated young husband, divorces him. Then she meets a writer whose theory is that a man can love only one woman. She takes him at his word and marries him. The intentions of Husband No. 2 are all right, but the wife simply won't let him alone. They crowd around him at parties. The wife finds that jealousy is making a private detective of her, and when she taxes her husband with flirting he advises her to count one hundred every time she feels better growing jealous. The picture is said to be filled with satire as well as humor.

On the magic stage Eddie Peabody is seen in "Way Down South," a Jack Partington presentation. There are two hands and fifty persons on the stage in this offering. The Vernon Country Club Quality Serenaders are featured.

BOY SCOUTS GUESTS
Two thousand Boy Scouts are expected to gather at the Metropolitan Theater tomorrow morning to take part in a special program to be given to their honored guests, the Scouts of America, by the Scouts of America. This program is being extended in recognition of the fact that recently Annama Troop Sixty of the Boy Scouts made Eddie Peabody, of the Metropolitan, an honorary member, because Eddie enlisted in the Navy at the age of 14 during the World War.

Carewe Play Suggested for Wilkes House

"Heaven-Tappers," produced by Edwin Carewe, will open the new Vine-street Theater, December 27. It was rumored today.

ELMAN QUARTET IS GREETED BY THROG

New Chamber-Music Ensemble Holds Audience in Breathless Interest

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

Mischa Elman will make America worship at the shrine of chamber music.

Last night's concert by the Elman String Quartet at the Philharmonic Auditorium was given before a breathlessly silent and sold-out house. The name of Elman brought the people there, but the art of quartet playing kept the audience on the qui vive for each new revelation of Haydn, Beethoven and Tchaikovsky and the musicianship of Elman, Bachmann, Britt and Schubert contributed largely to the success of the whole.

For the Elman String Quartet is decidedly a success story in its first years, which is unusual for an ensemble requiring so much in the way of balance, precision, interdependence of instruments and the temperamental adjustment of four artists. If the group continues, becoming solidified and serving the great composers, and does not prove to be the mere passing whim of a great violinist, it will be one of the most powerful influences for chamber music ever put forth. Elman can draw the crowd and his band make it listen as few are able to do.

It is too much to expect Elman to sink his vivacious personality into any group. He is always the soloist, taking his own time out for rubato and overpowering the rest of the quartet with the richness of his tone. Seldom does a string quartet have the sonorous, penetrating quality of this quartet. Each phrase he plays is lifted by his own peculiar style into bas-relief against the frieze of the others.

This was especially true in the opening Haydn quartet in D minor. Haydn often wrote with his eye exclusively on the first violinist, but the works are none the less beautiful for that.

The Beethoven did not fare so well, however. It was the emotionally lovely Op. 74, and required a discipline of tempo and a freedom of play between all the instruments which Elman was not disposed to give it. The opening was disappointingly ragged but soon changed into an exalted adagio tenderly and beautifully played with a fine regard for its nobility. The presto and final allegretto were scintillating and here the virtuoso technique of the leader held full scope.

Elman is making himself an apostle of the highest expression that stringed instruments can attain. He is to be congratulated.

EASTERN THEATER MAN NOW IN LOS ANGELES

James A. Gilfoyl, prominent in eastern theatrical circles, is in Los Angeles. He is accompanied by his wife, Gladys Gilfoyl.

Gilfoyl, a musical-comedy star, and director of numerous legitimate productions, is considering remaining here. He and his wife, as Jim and Gladys Gilfoyl, are a well-known vaudeville team.

LONDON, Nov. 26. (AP)—The Bucharest correspondent of the Westminster Gazette says King Ferdinand of Rumania is not expected to live until morning.
The dispatch, bearing today's (Friday) date, adds that blood poisoning of the large intestine due to cancer, is causing blood poisoning. Bucharest is described as "waiting a coup d'etat."

PARIS, Nov. 26. (AP)—Ruma-

he assumed last January.
Simultaneously there are reports that the King, who is suffering from cancer, is on the road to recovery
